Helen Keller’s Autobiography, written at age 22, and details her growing up, before and after meeting Anne Sullivan, and her years in formal education, both special needs education and afterwards when she was accepted into mainstream education, with the help of Ms. Sullivan’s translation. The book includes letters written by Helen from the age of seven when she met her first teacher and lifelong companion Anne Sullivan, who taught her language, including reading and writing; Sullivan’s first lessons involved spelling words on actions on the Gorky.
