A treaty or international agreement entered into by a state's executive without following the state's constitutionally required ratification procedure. It is not effective domestically. State. A political entity compromising a territory, a population, a governmental capable of entering into international relations, and a government capable of controlling its territory and peoples. Independent state. A state that is sovereign; one that operates independently internationally. The study, analysis, and comparison of the world's municipal law systems. Civil law. 1) the legal system derived from Roman and Germanic practice and set out in national law codes. 2) as distinguished from public law, the body of law dealing with the rights of private citizens. Corpus Juris Civilis. Treaties and international agreements registered or filed and recorded with the Secretariat of the United Nations. VOLUME 161. 1953. United Nations. No. 68. Treaty of Friendship and Alliance (and other related documents) between the Republic of China and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Signed at Moscow, on 14 August 1945. Termination. (d) Nothing in this Article shall affect any licensing or other agreement already in force at the date of this Agreement or any royalty or other compensation paid or agreed to be paid thereunder. Article VI. Each Contracting Government shall designate a representative to meet with the representative of the other Contracting Government to constitute a Technical Property Committee. 214 pages 29 cm. On spine: Keesing's treaties and alliances of the world. "The bulk of the information can be found in Keesing's contemporary archives." Early International agreements and their Later expansion -- World War II: Treaties and Agreements on Territorial Changes, frontiers, and other matters arising out of the War (the Yalta and Potsdam Conferences, Peace Treaties, The Austrian State treaty, the Franco-German Treaty on the Saar) -- The United Nations -- Treaties and Agreements on Nuclear Testing and Cooperation in Antarctica and. There are more than 200 countries in the world and even more nations. The world is open now and at your work, during your business trips and studies or just through the Internet you can be involves in the multicultural communication. Someone thinks that for efficient conversation good communicational skills and language proficiency (usually, in English) are enough. However, it's not is easy.