Teaching Language Through Literature (current). Modern Language Association of America Conference. Papers from the first conference on the problems of teaching English language and literature at Arab universities. Amman, Jordan: University of Jordan. Google Scholar. Full text views. Research on the language of literature has a long tradition under the rubric of philology. This unity of concerns has lapsed as linguistics has become independent and linguistic training for literary scholars has been virtually eliminated. Still, the linguistic revolution of the last four decades has produced substantial work by linguists in prose style, narrative, metrics, poetic syntax, and metaphor. Style and Textual Function. Early work in prose style related syntactic patterning to the author's world-view, and, as speech-act theory developed, to the social conventions surrounding lit... Languages and Linguistics 22. Pp. 1-44. with Clarence Robins. A note on the relation of reading failure to peer-group status in urban ghettos. The Teachers College Record 70:395-405. 1970 The reading of the -ed suffix. In H. Levin & J. Williams (eds.), Basic Studies on Reading. New York: Basic Books. Pp. 222-245 The study of language in its social context. Studium Generale 23:30-87. Revised as Ch. Bibliography. Page 6. 1984 Field methods of the Project on Linguistic Change and Variation. In J. Baugh & J. Sherzer. (eds.), Language in Use. Language and Literature. Norwood, NJ: Ablex. Pp. 128-146. The Oxford Handbook of Languages of the Caucasus "an introduction to and overview of the linguistically diverse languages of southern Russia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, and Armenia. Though the languages of the Caucasus have often been mischaracterized or exoticized, many of them have cross-linguistically rare features found in few or no other languages." We Have a New Site! With the help of your donations we have been making good progress on designing and launching our new website! Check it out at https://linguistlist.org/!  We are still in our beta stages for the new site— if you have