The Treaty of Fort Wayne, sometimes called the Ten O'clock Line Treaty or the Twelve Mile Line Treaty, is an 1809 treaty that obtained 3,000,000 acres (approximately 12,000 km²) of Native American land for the white settlers of Illinois and Indiana. The negotiations primarily involved the Delaware tribe but included other tribes as well. However, the negotiations excluded the Shawnee, who were minor inhabitants of the area and had previously been asked to leave by Miami War Chief Little Turtle Fort Wayne, Treaty of. See also what's at your library, or elsewhere. Filed under: Fort Wayne, Treaty of. Journal of the proceedings : Indian treaty, Fort Wayne, September 30th, 1809 / (24 p. ; 23 cm, 1910), by Henry Jones (page images at HathiTrust).